

Beginning Genealogy Classes Coming Very Soon — Sign Up Now!

It's what you've been asking us for! Have you been inspired by the hit television show Who Do You Think You Are? Then be sure to join us for our three-part beginning family history class and learn how you can trace your own genealogy. Presenting these programs will be Sara Allen, genealogist and librarian in SJCP's Local & Family History Services.

Who Do You Think You Are? Uncover Your Family's History

Tuesday, November 2, 9, 16

6:00 p.m. — 7:00 p.m.

Main Library — Dickinson Room

304 S. Main St., South Bend

Tuesday, November 2: Introduction to Family History

Learn how to start the research process by collecting documents and pictures, interviewing relatives, getting organized, and recording information.

Tuesday, November 9: Nuts and Bolts of Research

Learn to use the census, vital records, land records, and probate records to fill out your family history. These records are crucial for solving genealogical mysteries!

Tuesday, November 16: Internet Genealogy

Learn about databases such as Ancestry and HeritageQuest (available to you for free at SJCP) and how to use them for genealogical research. Other important family history websites, such as FamilySearch.org, will also be discussed. Discover options for publishing your family history.

Pre-register for any or all sessions online (go to <http://evanced.info/stjoseph/evanced/eventcalendar.asp>, click to the November calendar, and then click on each class separately to sign up) or by calling Local & Family History Services at 574-282-4621.
